The complete forest bestiary.
This is a chronicle about monsters we have encountered. There is already one on this topic but we have encountered new monsters since then. The zombies, elementals and the wolfwers have stayed the same, but zombies are now sometimes trained in classes. The green fairies now get 3 of treeform ball, terror ball, stitch ray, empathic ray, fear touch, or earthbound touch, and 1 of earthbind aura, fear aura, or regen touch. There are vines, who I do not know much about, but they seem to have crown of vines. Finally, they are the serpent beasts, which are normal serpent beasts except they eat the green wall.

Black faires
I'm sure you have heard about the green and red faires that constantly terrorize orizon, but do you know about the black faires? These fairies can only be found in the swamp, where they try to repair the damage done by the forest and volcano spirits, also making the swamp a better place. They are very protective of the swamp, sacrificing themselves to defend it even if it has no effect. They also seem to have something that both the forest spirit and the volcano spirit want.

The search
Recently, we have noticed something strange, the forest and the volcano spirit, along with their armies, are doing less of killing each other, and more of searching for something. We do not know what this is, but we know that both the spirits want it badly. Thanks to a vision one of our party members had, we know it is in a mud pool, is greatly important, is heavily primal, and is located deep in the swamp, which is black fairy territory. The black fairies also probably have something to do with all of this. This is all I know.
