We were on a mission, what we were doing, I forget, when we stumbled upon the broken remains of some structure. Jimbob (Batu) used tinker to identify it and found a fragment with a sort of mechanics/clockwork, then with a bit more information we were able to deduce that these were catapult fragments, and meanwhile, our herbalists identified mushrooms that grow where bodies lay, as I dug them up, I recognized them as Rose Knights, and that this was a battle sight
- Atalathon, demonhunter, Gildmark Empire

Following up on the first letter I sent, I have been informed that Belmorn wanted to ally with you. However, we recently found a catapult, and, given the resources, we could mass produce them, so I suggest we ally with the Weyrwoods, after all, we do have the blueprints. also, Belmorn wants to eliminate the architecture and culture, which are both key assets to us.
- Atalathon, demonhunter, Gildmark Empire