Thesis: Today fucking sucked.

Hello everyone Im going to address my recent alligations that involve me and Professor Aslamali.

This event involves the day of the twenty-eighth of eighth moon. In the morning I woke up with more severe color fever, it had spread all over my arm, it appears to have reduced but it momentarily flared up with increased symptoms. My thoughts are that it must have been from the excess time that I had selflessly taken out of my day to help fix the problems that everyone is encountering around towns, but this is another matter.

I woke up with a massive migraine and the increased color fever, this was the reason I was late to class. I arrived to class shortly after Faxor, Lenny, and Rex all got kicked out or didnt show and Proffessor Aslamali was not having it and was very irritated. I attempted to my best ability to mitigate the situation by staying in the back of class and not inhibit his teaching so I just shut my mouth and endured my migraine as he lectured. I took notes best I could focus but my eyes had a hard time focusing, after around twenty minutes or so into the class, my pencil broke while taking notes, the lead specifically, I got another from Aarogran but it didnt stop there.

Now After class I felt bad for making Proffessor Aslamali upset so I went back to appologize in person but they had left briskly, likely because of some rumors that have been spreading about their relationship with Proffessor Seossal. I did see Proffessor Aslamali without a wedding ring on in class today so It is understandable if that was the inherent source of his anger in class today. Since he was not in class at the time I wrote a note for him to appologize for what happened and for being late, saying it will not happen again. While I was opening the drawer the drawer broke! Then as i was writing the letter my pencil lead broke for the 3rd time today! I wrote the rest of the letter with a spare pencil Then left to go to lunch, this is when i heard the rumor spreading. This hopefully will debunk the rumors i heard later in the day of me doing flirtatious things with the Proffessor, if you are that salty about your bad grades maybe you are the problem not me, If you want to get in contact with the professor for better grades i heard he might be single soon. L

Sincerely Beau Warragul.

P.S this was not all that happened to me throughout the day, but it hopefully dispels rumors.