Year 277.1.3 - 24th of Ninthmoon

- Leytap is ready! Important - should close today
- handle shards first to get experience unweaving different types of mana
  - need to stabilize shards before unweaving & clean-up
- other missions: disarm magical items and get rid of bugs
- suggesting magical items first, then shards, then leytap
  - others seem to agree - heading out

1. deconstruct items carefully
2. use alchemy to counteract effects & disarm

mild blue mana rash, healed later

1st mission: disarm collection of dangerous items warped by Arc
- many explosions - party got ahead of themselves and set off a chain reaction
  - might need to have a talk about caution next time we gather
- unwove a few items much like we do the shards
- gained some experience with magical items
- some notable items:
  - cloak (felt heavy, made me feel fatigued, Calix meditated with it to disarm it)
  - scarf (constricting vines, unraveled while submerged in running water)
  - shield (glued creatures to it, unwoven)

2nd mission: fire swamp shard escalates - stabilize, clean-up
- did not attend this mission
- very difficult but successful

Lunch ——————————————

3rd mission: green river shard - cleanup
- reminder: read and attune to green magic, then key to a source of green mana and unweave (only possible to do this because of the Arc)
- went well and smoothly (practice is paying off)
- spent some time returning environment to its natural state (cut down trees, restored river banks)
  - should get in the habit of doing this with every shard

- learned that Valen was working at the shimmerglass sea before the Arc

- Calix update - pretending not to know him is... difficult. It's nice to be friendly again, though. The 27th can't come soon enough.

4th mission: assist in securing the Teakiri leytap
- ritual was like unweaving the shards
- first three attempts failed
- 4th attempt: I left the ritual to defend the party
- ritual was successful.
- large slimes(?) were attacking the party with stunning spells and ice touch
- I got stunned and treeformed as we all started taking in mana
  - as such, I exploded from the influx of mana (unpleasant)
- everyone who participated in the ritual has severe mana rash of all 5 types (myself included) - confined to healer's tent for the time being

Final notes
- more new faces, party continues to grow
- I have started training as a ranger and I have progressed with my duelist training
- now that we've closed the leytap, we'll be moving on from Teakiri
- not sure where we'll go next...
