Theory: Just because its Rainy doesnt mean it has to be dreary.

Today was exceedingly rainy, It feels as if a blue mana spot opened right over the whole tent area, needless to say the medical tent felt even more drewry than normal, but I thought today would be a fun day to learn and have fun with my friends.

I woke up in the morning, 5am brisk, but fuck that I'm not going on a morning run in this rainstorm. I slept in a bit, woke up at 6 and got ready for work and school, went to school, normal day, learned about weather magic and natural weather, it makes me think about how I could utilize the weather to absorb blue mana. If I could go fly up and drink a cloud, Lily would probably say they taste like cotton candy. But it was easy, maybe I'm just smart.

Anyways, after school I went to work, I talked to Gouda about helping him with accounting but I think he was joking so I just did my normal work, I have had a blast at this new place, went out on lunch to have food with Ariane and it was great, egg salad sandwiches and a side salad. She had about half of hers and was done so I ate the rest, she likes watching me eat so I'm glad about that. I finished my work load and went to my next job, that one is more research heavy but I got to spin it in a way to test my water collection theory and I have confirmed I can gain a bit of Mana from kinetic energy, wonder if I could drain spells mid air. Hmm. Anyways. I finished that up and headed off to the medic tent, oops. After work I went and cooked some Broccoli and Cheddar soup, Gouda imported the cheese and damn the soup was good, perfectly smooth, damn that took a while though.

Anyways I went to the medic tent and shared the soup, god damn the soup was good! I think ill use Goudas recipe a few more times! I love food, well most people know i love food but i really do, its not just a flavor thing, its a community thing, nothing can brighten a shitty day than just eating a delicious sandwich or soup, if you feel sick ostrich noodle soup is amazing, i dont get why people dont encourage it more. Yeah i know bad habits can develop from relying to much on food, look at me for Ra’s sake. Anyways got to into the food. I had an amazing time, I think a few secrets got spilled but hell, that's so Lakeshore. Harlow and Ptolemae are learning how to read so im glad about that, they already learned a bit but they are really getting into it now. It makes me happy that they are learning, maybe im a bit buzzed writing this but hey dont judge me, im not rambling im just writing and having fun. I got to spend some good time with Lily and Harlow, Ptolemae and a few others, so im glad to have made the time, even if it fucks my sleep for tomorrow.