The Eldar Times

A weekly news report on the Eldar adventuring party (for those who care)

By Alaric Vane on the eleventh of tenthmoon

Unfortunately, I was not there today. However, I have some recollections from my party members who were there and hopefully can write well enough. These recollections may not be true.

They decided to go to Illionor, as our chivalry finally rose enough to see what mission it was. We have a new innkeeper named Goldy, who is a professional adventurer who focuses on Illianor, and they are in troubled times right now. There is a huge civil war between Illionor and the cities of which I forgot (apologies). The cities that I forgot are currently winning, and we were sent to help them. In the first encounter they found some soldiers who were running around, if I am correct, and they were searching for a spy. They looked for some time and eventually found a spy amongst them. Then, they went to fight the magocracy, and fought mages for the rest of the day.

This was a very sadly short chronicle, and I apologize, but I hope to write more next week.

Alas, I have nothing else to write about, and will be heading out. Thank you for reading,

Alaric Vane