Chronicle, 23rd of october.

Today's news, from now on imma put this at the top: @:83 (City lvls: 15/blacksmith, historian, farmer. 10/Literary arts, diplomat, stonemason.) Chivalry: Medium-low, declining. News: Good weather brings long growing season allows for enormous harvest - Eldar prospering as harvest continues. Trade roads to Torkord closed early, pass to Pendra remains open until first snow. Crack discovered in the gorgecrest greenwall after earthquake, defence mounted against volcano elidhu as repairs are made.
I did not get to write down the innkeepers before something happened that I will describe later. One thing I will note, however, is that Goldy's class changed from "Aethermancer" to "Aurimancer". Did not get to ask him why. In the inn, goldy mentioned multiple things:

- There are nightmares from rainforest?
- Demons pulling people into the rainforest
- Fey go to Syenon, something about the wild hunt?
- Shimmerglass elidhu and other elidhus clash

I couldnt get through writing more before there was some powerful figure entered the room. There were wearing full plate, with scales on them (the scales were not the full plate, wasn't natural armor). They also had two purple balls and two purple packets, and a very fancy pure white sword on their back. They were very rushed, saying "Start voting" quickly. They saw just one person voting for illionor, and then chose that mission for us. They then said "We need to go" and left with goldy.

Since Goldy wasn't there, we had to vote for which sub-mission we wanted to do by ourselves. We decided to push the mageocracy out of the mage school. On the first encounter on the way, there was multiple mageocracy members trying to get the illion alliance to open a door. One of the mageocracy members had "With sorcery of diviner, I create your betrayal" which was a burst spell that did not require line-of-sight that charmed people. We were able to drop them in time before they opened the door, but they used the sorcery again and got someone to open the door. We then dropped the rest of the mageocracy and won that encounter.

At the there encounter, there was waves of mageocracy fighting us. We lost the first two waves, then won the next two waves, then lost the next wave. Multiple members of our party were exploded.

The next thing we decided to do was to defend the healer tower from mageocracy. There was a very annoying group of mages who abused stun ray and medicine ball who got in 4 times, but otherwise nobody got in. There were no on the ways there, as we were already in the mage school

- Bartholomew

P.S: I'm trying to train Aethermancer! Or should I say Aurimancer? I dunno, but basically Goldy says I have to "defeat a powerful foe" to train. If my party is reading this, please vote so we can beat that flame hydra!